Thousand of pregnancies are affected each year, but many go undiagnosed and/or untreated. On average 15 babies die each day from the affects of these syndromes. Some may have been saved with proper diagnosis and treatment. Upon diagnosis families often struggle with not knowing or knowing little about their diagnosis; they feel alone in their search for information, help and support. Fetal Hope will provide support and factual medical information for families dealing with fetal distresses and syndromes, create awareness through its events and media campaigns, fund research, training and new fetal centers through grant programs, and be a source of the latest technological breakthroughs saving babies' lives.

In order to provide leading and accurate information, Fetal Hope's organization contains a medical advisory board. The Fetal Hope Medical Advisory Board is comprised of leading fetal medical centers and doctors. To assist Fetal Hope in its missions and goals, the organization contains an active and prominent advisory board. Fetal Hope is managed and run by those that have been affected directly and indirectly by various fetal syndromes.
